

S. No	Word	Parts of Speech	Transcription	Meaning	Synonyms	Antonyms	Usage
1	Aberration	Noun	/ˌæbə'reɪʃən/	Deviation from expected behavior	Anomaly, deviation	Normality, regularity	The voltage drop was an aberration in the otherwise stable circuit.
2	Abrogate	Verb	/ˈæbrəgeɪt/	To formally abolish or cancel	Revoke, annul	Uphold, enact	The engineer sought to abrogate outdated safety standards.
3	Acrimonious	Adjective	/ˌækri'məʊniəs/	Bitter in tone or language	Caustic, harsh	Mild, cordial	They had an acrimonious debate over system design.
4	Adumbrate	Verb	/ˈædəmbreit/	To outline or foreshadow vaguely	Sketch, hint	Expose, reveal	The report adumbrated potential cybersecurity threats.
5	Alias	Noun, Adverb, Verb	/ˈeɪliəs/	An alternate name or label	Pseudonym, nickname	Real name	The file was stored under an alias to maintain confidentiality.
6	Ameliorate	Verb	/ə'mi:liəreit/	To make something better	Improve, enhance	Worsen, degrade	They designed a patch to ameliorate the software's memory leak.
7	Antediluvian	Adjective, Noun	/ˌæntɪ dɪ'lu:vɪən/	Extremely outdated	Ancient, archaic	Modern, current	Using floppy disks is antediluvian in modern computing.
8	Antithetical	Adjective	/ˌæntɪθə'tetɪkəl/	Directly opposed	Contrary, contradictory	Compatible, similar	Their goals were antithetical to green engineering principles.
9	Apostasy	Noun	/ə'pɒstəsi/	Abandonment of a principle	Renunciation, defection	Adherence, fidelity	His switch to open-source tools felt like an apostasy to proprietary systems.
10	Apposite	Adjective	/ˈæpəzɪt/	Highly appropriate or suitable	Pertinent, fitting	Irrelevant, inappropriate	This metric is apposite for evaluating network latency.
11	Arbitrary	Adjective	/ˈɑ:bitrəri/	Based on random choice	Capricious, whimsical	Systematic, reasoned	The input values were arbitrary and skewed the results.
12	Artifice	Noun	/ˈɑ:trɪfɪs/	Clever trick or deception	Deception, ruse	Honesty, sincerity	The encryption used a clever artifice to mask message content.
13	Asymmetry	Noun	/ˌeɪ'sɪmətri/	Lack of symmetry	Imbalance, disparity	Symmetry, balance	There's an asymmetry in the load distribution across the bridge.
14	Auscultate	Verb	/ˈɔ:skəltet/	To listen to body sounds (with a stethoscope)	Auscultate, monitor	—	Engineers auscultate pipeline vibrations using acoustic sensors.
15	Auspicious	Adjective	/ɔ:'spɪʃəs/	Conducive to success	Favorable, promising	Unfavorable, inauspicious	The pilot test yielded auspicious results.
16	Autonomous	Adjective	/ɔ:'tɒnəməs/	Self-governing or self-operating	Independent, automated	Dependent, manual	We developed an autonomous drone for environmental monitoring.
17	Avarice	Noun	/ˈævərɪs/	Greed for wealth or gain	Greed, cupidity	Generosity, altruism	Avarice motivated the data misuse in the project.
18	Bedizen	Verb	/bɪ'daɪzən/	To decorate gaudily	Adorn, embellish	Undecorate, plain	The interface was bedizened with unnecessary UI elements.
19	Benevolent	Adjective	/bə'nevələnt/	Kind and well-meaning	Benevolent, altruistic	Malevolent, selfish	The community-sponsored lab was driven by a benevolent vision.
20	Benign	Adjective	/bɪ'nam/	Harmless in effect	Harmless, innocuous	Malignant, harmful	This software bug is benign and doesn't affect system performance.
21	Bolster	Verb, Noun	/ˈbɒlstə(r)/	To support or strengthen	Reinforce, bolster	Undermine, weaken	Documentation helped bolster the credibility of the module.
22	Boorish	Adjective	/ˈbɔ:riʃ/	Rude or insensitive behavior	Ill-mannered, uncouth	Polite, refined	His boorish remarks undermined team morale.
23	Cacophony	Noun	/kə'kɒfəni/	Harsh mixture of sounds	Discord, dissonance	Harmony, melody	The test lab was filled with machine-generated cacophony.
24	Cadence	Noun, Verb	/ˈkeɪdəns/	Rhythmic sequence or flow	Rhythm, tempo	Irregularity	The cadence of data packets was carefully synchronized.
25	Cajole	Verb	/kə'dʒəʊl/	To persuade through flattery	Coax, entice	Dissuade, repel	He tried to cajole the team into adopting his prototype.
26	Callous	Adjective, Verb	/ˈkæləs/	Emotionally hardened	Insensitive, unfeeling	Compassionate, kind	The lead engineer's callous disregard for safety was troubling.
27	Canard	Noun	/kə'nɑ:d/	A false or unfounded belief	Rumor, myth	Truth, fact	The canard about AI replacing engineers entirely is misleading.
28	Capitulate	Verb	/kə'ptɪjuleɪt/	To surrender under conditions	Yield, concede	Resist, defy	The team refused to capitulate to the unrealistic deadline.
29	Caucus	Noun, Verb	/ˈkɔ:kəs/	A group meeting for discussion	Assembly, session	—	We held a caucus to finalize the design approach.
30	Celerity	Noun	/sə'lerəti/	Swiftness of movement	Speed, rapidity	Slowness, delay	The processor's celerity improved simulation times.
31	Chagrin	Noun, Verb	/ˈʃægrɪn/	Distress at failure	Disappointment, embarrassment	Contentment, pride	Much to his chagrin, the formula produced inaccurate results.
32	Clairvoyant	Adjective, Noun	/kleə'vɔɪənt/	Having insight beyond ordinary perception	Insightful, prophetic	Unperceptive, ignorant	His clairvoyant predictions helped prevent system failures.
33	Circumscribe	Verb	/ˌsɜ:kəmskraɪb/	Restrict within limits	Constrain, confine	Expand, liberate	Budget constraints circumscribe the project's scope.
34	Clemency	Noun	/ˈklemənsi/	Mercy or leniency	Forgiveness, leniency	Harshness, severity	The senior engineer showed clemency after the minor error.

35	Cognizant	Adjective	/ˈkɒɡnɪzənt/	Having awareness	Aware, conscious	Unaware, ignorant	Be cognizant of edge cases when designing this algorithm.
36	Concomitant	Adjective, Noun	/kənˈkɒmɪtənt/	Naturally accompanying	Associated, concurrent	Independent, unrelated	Power consumption is a concomitant effect of high computation.
37	Conflagration	Noun	/ˌkɒnfləˈɡreɪʃən/	A large destructive fire	Blaze, wildfire	—	The data center narrowly avoided a conflagration.
38	Confluence	Noun	/ˈkɒnfluəns/	Merging of elements	Convergence, junction	Divergence, separation	The confluence of wind and solar power boosts grid resilience.
39	Copacetic	Adjective	/ˌkəʊpəˈsetɪk/	Completely satisfactory	Fine, satisfactory	Unsatisfactory, subpar	After testing, the system's performance was copacetic.
40	Corroborate	Verb	/kəˈrɒbəreɪt/	To confirm or support	Confirm, validate	Contradict, refute	Multiple sensors corroborated the anomalous reading.
41	Coterie	Noun	/ˈkəʊtəri/	A small close-knit group	Clique, circle	Public, mass	A coterie of engineers formed an innovation cell.
42	Cryptic	Adjective	/ˈkrɪptɪk/	Mysterious or ambiguous	Enigmatic, arcane	Clear, explicit	The log file contained a cryptic error message.
43	Debilitate	Verb	/dɪˈbɪlɪteɪt/	To weaken or impair	Weaken, enfeeble	Strengthen, invigorate	Prolonged overheating debilitates microprocessor longevity.
44	Decorum	Noun	/dɪˈkɔːrəm/	Proper behavior and etiquette	Propriety, etiquette	Impropriety, rudeness	Maintain decorum in client presentations.
45	Deleterious	Adjective	/ˌdelɪˈtəriəs/	Harmful or damaging	Harmful, detrimental	Beneficial, helpful	Exposure to static electricity is deleterious to components.
46	Delineate	Verb	/dɪˈlɪniət/	To clearly describe or outline	Define, outline	Confuse, obscure	The report delineates system requirements clearly.
47	Demarcate	Verb	/ˈdiːmɑːkeɪt/	To set boundaries	Separate, delineate	Merge, conflate	We demarcated the responsibilities of each subsystem.
48	Denouement	Noun	/deɪˈnuːmɛnt/	Final outcome or resolution	Conclusion, outcome	Start, beginning	The denouement of the simulation revealed design flaws.
49	Depravity	Noun	/dɪˈprævəti/	Moral corruption or wickedness	Immorality, corruption	Virtue, integrity	Data manipulation reflected the system's depravity.
50	Desideratum	Noun	/dɪˌsɪdəˈrɑːtəm/	Something desired as essential	Necessity, requirement	Extraneous, optional	Scalability is a desideratum for the platform.
51	Desuetude	Noun	/ˈdeswɪtjuːd/	State of disuse	Obsolescence, abandonment	Use, utilization	The legacy protocol has fallen into desuetude.
52	Diaphanous	Adjective	/daɪˈæfənəs/	Light, delicate, translucent	Sheer, delicate	Opaque, heavy	The diaphanous mesh filters provided excellent airflow.
53	Didactic	Adjective, Noun	/daɪˈdæktɪk/	Intended to teach	Instructive, educational	Misleading, uninformative	The tutorial was didactic and well-structured.
54	Dilatory	Adjective	/ˈdɪlətəri/	Slow to act; procrastinating	Tardy, sluggish	Prompt, speedy	The team's dilatory response risked missing the milestone.
55	Disparate	Adjective, Verb	/ˈdɪspərət/	Essentially different	Diverse, distinct	Similar, homogeneous	We compared two disparate architectures.
56	Dissident	Noun, Adjective	/ˈdɪsɪdənt/	One who disagrees publicly	Dissenter, critic	Supporter, conformist	The dissident engineer challenged entrenched methodologies.
57	Divergent	Adjective, Noun	/daɪˈvɜːdʒənt/	Moving in different directions	Different, varied	Convergent, unified	Two divergent solutions emerged from the brainstorming session.
58	Dogmatic	Adjective	/dɒɡˈmætɪk/	Opinionated without evidence	Opinionated, rigid	Flexible, open-minded	His dogmatic adherence to one paradigm stifled innovation.
59	Ebullient	Adjective	/ɪˈbʊliənt/	Overflowing with enthusiasm	Exuberant, lively	Apathetic, subdued	The ebullient team celebrated the breakthrough.
60	Echelon	Noun, Verb	/ˈeʃələn/	A level or rank in an organization	Tier, rank	Base, floor	She rose to the top echelon of engineering leadership.
61	Eclectic	Adjective, Noun	/ɪˈklektɪk/	Diverse in style or source	Varied, diverse	Narrow, uniform	The system uses an eclectic mix of algorithms.
62	Egregious	Adjective	/ɪˈɡriːdʒəs/	Outstandingly bad or shocking	Flagrant, blatant	Minor, trivial	The bug was an egregious error that had severe consequences.
63	Elicit	Verb	/ɪˈlɪsɪt/	To evoke or draw out	Evoke, extract	Suppress, stifle	The error messages helped elicit the root cause.
64	Emaciate	Verb	/ɪˈmeɪsiət/	To make abnormally thin or weak	Waste away, wither	Nourish, strengthen	The overuse error quickly emaciated server performance.
65	Embellish	Verb	/ɪmˈbelɪʃ/	To add decorative details	Adorn, enhance	Simplify, deface	They chose not to embellish the UI to keep it clean.
66	Embryonic	Adjective	/ˌembriˈɒnɪk/	In an early development stage	Rudimentary, nascent	Mature, developed	The project is still in its embryonic phase.
67	Empirical	Adjective	/ɪmˈpɪrɪkəl/	Based on observation or experience	Observational, factual	Theoretical, speculative	Our conclusions are supported by empirical data.
68	Enervate	Verb	/ˈenəveɪt/	To weaken mentally or morally	Exhaust, debilitate	Energize, invigorate	Continuous debugging enervated the engineering team.
69	Enigma	Noun	/ɪˈnɪgmə/	Something puzzling or inexplicable	Mystery, puzzle	Solution, answer	The intermittent failure remained an enigma.

70	Ephemeral	Adjective, Noun	/ɪˈfemərəl/	Short-lived, fleeting	Transient, short-lived	Permanent, enduring	The system outage was ephemeral.
71	Equanimity	Noun	/ˌekwəˈnɪməti/	Mental calmness in difficulty	Composure, serenity	Agitation, anxiety	The team handled the crisis with remarkable equanimity.
72	Erudite	Adjective	/ˈerjʊdaɪt/	Having extensive knowledge	Learned, scholarly	Ignorant, uneducated	He gave an erudite explanation of the algorithm.
73	Eschew	Verb	/ɪsˈtʃuː/	To avoid deliberately	Shun, abstain	Embrace, adopt	We eschewed deprecated libraries in favor of modern ones.
74	Esoteric	Adjective, Noun	/ˌesəˈterɪk/	Intended for a select few	Arcane, cryptic	Obvious, mainstream	The math behind it is quite esoteric.
75	Ethereal	Adjective	/ɪˈθɪəriəl/	Extremely delicate or refined	Delicate, airy	Heavy, coarse	The sensor data had an ethereal quality.
76	Facetious	Adjective	/fəˈsiːʃəs/	Not meant to be taken seriously	Flippant, playful	Serious, sincere	His facetious remark about the deadline lightened the mood.
77	Fallacious	Adjective	/fəˈleɪʃəs/	Based on a mistaken belief	Misleading, erroneous	Valid, sound	The assumption was fallacious and led to incorrect calculations.
78	Fatuous	Adjective	/ˈfætʃuəs/	Silly and pointless	Inane, foolish	Sensible, wise	His fatuous comment didn't add value to the discussion.
79	Fecund	Adjective, Noun	/ˈfiːkənd/	Highly fertile or productive	Productive, prolific	Sterile, barren	The R&D team was remarkably fecund in developing prototypes.
80	Flummox	Verb	/ˈflʌmɒks/	To bewilder or confuse	Perplex, baffle	Enlighten, clarify	The complex diagram flummoxed new team members.
81	Garrulous	Adjective	/ˈgærələs/	Excessively talkative	Loquacious, chatty	Taciturn, reserved	The garrulous presenter distracted from the technical content.
82	Grandiose	Adjective	/ˈgrændiəʊs/	Impressive but unrealistic	Overblown, pretentious	Modest, realistic	The plan was too grandiose for the available budget.
83	Harangue	Noun, Verb	/həˈræŋ/	A lengthy, aggressive speech	Tirade, rant	Praise, compliment	He delivered a harangue on cutting-edge hardware standards.
84	Hubris	Noun	/ˈhjuːbrɪs/	Excessive pride or self-confidence	Arrogance, conceit	Humility, modesty	His hubris led to ignoring critical design flaws.
85	Iconoclast	Noun	/aɪˈkɒnək læst/	One who challenges established beliefs	Rebel, dissident	Conformist, traditionalist	The iconoclast engineer introduced a radical new architecture.
86	Ideate	Verb	/ˈaɪdiət/	To form ideas or concepts	Brainstorm, conceive	Dismiss, abandon	The team met to ideate possible solutions.
87	Imbroglia	Noun	/ɪmˈbrəʊliə/	A confusing or complicated situation	Entanglement, predicament	Simplicity, clarity	The system upgrade turned into a time-consuming imbroglia.
88	Immutable	Adjective	/ɪˈmjʊːtəbl/	Unchanging over time	Fixed, permanent	Mutable, flexible	Some system components are effectively immutable.
89	Impetus	Noun	/ˈɪmpɪtəs/	Force or energy behind something	Motivation, stimulus	Hindrance, impediment	The grant provided impetus for further research.
90	Inchoate	Adjective	/ɪnˈkəʊət/	Just begun and undeveloped	Rudimentary, embryonic	Developed, mature	The design proposal remained inchoate.
91	Incipient	Adjective	/ɪnˈsɪpiənt/	Beginning to exist or appear	Nascent, emerging	Concluding, complete	We detected incipient faults during testing.
92	Inexorable	Adjective	/ɪnˈeksərəbəl/	Impossible to stop or prevent	Relentless, inevitable	Avoidable, preventable	The inexorable rise of automation is reshaping industries.
93	Insidious	Adjective	/ɪnˈsɪdiəs/	Treacherous but subtle	Stealthy, subtle	Harmless, benign	Insidious errors lurked in the legacy code.
94	Intransigent	Adjective, Noun	/ɪnˈtrænsɪdʒənt/	Unwilling to change opinion	Unyielding, stubborn	Flexible, compliant	The vendor remained intransigent on pricing.
95	Inveterate	Adjective	/ɪnˈvetərət/	Long-established, habitual	Habitual, ingrained	Occasional, infrequent	His inveterate habits included rigorous code reviews.
96	Irascible	Adjective	/ɪˈræsəbl/	Easily angered	Irritable, quick-tempered	Calm, even-tempered	The irascible engineer frequently clashed with the team.
97	Juxtaposition	Noun	/ˌdʒʌkstəpəˈzɪʃən/	Placement side by side for contrast	Contrast, adjacency	Separation, isolation	The juxtaposition of old and new designs was enlightening.
98	Kaleidoscopic	Adjective	/kəˈlaɪdəˈskɒpɪk/	Constantly changing in complex patterns	Multifarious, varied	Uniform, static	The project's requirements felt kaleidoscopic and shifting.
99	Kinetic	Adjective, Noun	/kɪˈnetɪk/	Relating to motion	Dynamic, moving	Static, stationary	The simulation measured kinetic energy changes over time.
100	Laconic	Adjective	/ləˈkɒnɪk/	Using very few words	Brief, terse	Wordy, verbose	His laconic summary captured the key findings.
101	Lachrymose	Adjective	/ˈlækrɪməʊs/	Tearful or sorrowful	Tearful, mournful	Cheerful, jubilant	The engineer gave a lachrymose account of the project failure.
102	Lambent	Adjective	/ˈlæmbənt/	Softly glowing or flickering	Luminous, radiant	Dull, dim	The lambent dashboard lights indicated normal operation.
103	Languid	Adjective	/ˈlæŋɡwɪd/	Slow or relaxed	Leisurely, sluggish	Energetic, vigorous	The project's progress was languid due to resource constraints.
104	Leitmotif	Noun	/ˈləɪtməʊtiːf/	A recurring theme	Theme, motif	Variation, divergence	“Efficiency” became the leitmotif of the system redesign.

105	Luculent	Adjective	/ˈluːkjələnt/	Clear and easy to understand	Lucid, clear	Vague, obscure	The document was unusually luculent for technical specs.
106	Machination	Noun	/ˌmækrɪˈneɪʃən/	Clever or secret plot	Scheme, intrigue	Honesty, candor	The rival team's machinations complicated negotiations.
107	Magnanimous	Adjective	/mægˈnænɪməs/	Generous in forgiving	Generous, forgiving	Vindictive, petty	The manager was magnanimous after the testing error.
108	Mellifluous	Adjective	/məˈlɪfluəs/	Sweet or musical sound	Melodious, harmonious	Harsh, jarring	The mellifluous alert tone eased user annoyance.
109	Munificent	Adjective	/mjuːˈnɪfɪsənt/	More generous than necessary	Lavish, bountiful	Stingy, miserly	The munificent grant funded interdisciplinary research.
110	Neophyte	Noun	/ˈniːəfaɪt/	A beginner	Novice, newcomer	Expert, veteran	As a neophyte, she asked insightful questions.
111	Noisome	Adjective	/ˈnɔɪsəm/	Harmful or offensive	Foul, unpleasant	Pleasant, agreeable	The noisome fumes triggered safety alarms.
112	Noxious	Adjective	/ˈnɒkjəs/	Harmful to health or morality	Toxic, harmful	Healthy, benign	Engineers must guard against noxious system outputs.
113	Obdurate	Adjective	/ˈɒbdjʊrət/	Stubbornly refusing to change	Unyielding, stubborn	Compliant, tractable	The manufacturer was obdurate about meeting dates.
114	Obfuscate	Verb	/ˈɒbfʌsket/	To confuse	Confuse, obscure	Clarify, enlighten	Excessive jargon can obfuscate design documents.
115	Obstreperous	Adjective	/əbˈstreperəs/	Noisy and difficult to control	Unruly, boisterous	Serene, compliant	The obstreperous alerts made prioritization difficult.
116	Obtuse	Adjective	/əbˈtjuːs/	Slow to understand	Dull, dense	Sharp, quick-witted	The obtuse feedback hid the real issues.
117	Onerous	Adjective	/ˈɒnərəs/	Burdensome	Arduous, heavy	Easy, trivial	The regulatory requirements were onerous to implement.
118	Opprobrium	Noun	/əˈprɒbriəm/	Harsh criticism	Disgrace, criticism	Praise, acclaim	The system failure brought opprobrium from stakeholders.
119	Penurious	Adjective	/pəˈnjuəriəs/	Extremely poor or stingy	Impoverished, miserly	Generous, affluent	A penurious budget constrained testing phases.
120	Perfidy	Noun	/ˈpɜːfɪdi/	Dishonest behavior	Treachery, betrayal	Loyalty, fidelity	The contractor's perfidy caused project delays.
121	Pernicious	Adjective	/pəˈnɪʃəs/	Highly destructive	Harmful, damaging	Beneficial, harmless	A pernicious bug compromised data integrity.
122	Pertinacious	Adjective	/ˌpɜːtɪˈneɪʃəs/	Holding firmly to beliefs	Persistent, tenacious	Yielding, flexible	She was pertinacious in optimizing the code.
123	Phlegmatic	Adjective	/ˈflegˈmætɪk/	Calm and unemotional	Stoic, calm	Emotional, excitable	His phlegmatic approach helped in crisis control.
124	Piquant	Adjective	/ˈpiːkənt/	Pleasantly stimulating	Spicy, intriguing	Bland, dull	The piquant user feedback highlighted subtle bugs.
125	Platitude	Noun	/ˈplætɪtjuːd/	A trite remark	Cliché, banality	Originality, insight	His response was a meaningless platitude.
126	Polemical	Adjective	/pəˈlemɪkəl/	Relating to controversy	Contentious, argumentative	Conciliatory, neutral	The debate turned polemical quickly.
127	Pragmatic	Adjective, Noun	/ˈprægˈmætɪk/	Practical rather than theoretical	Practical, realistic	Idealistic, impractical	The team adopted a pragmatic approach to troubleshooting.
128	Precarious	Adjective	/priˈkeəriəs/	Not securely held	Risky, unstable	Secure, stable	The system was in a precarious state before the fix.
129	Predilection	Noun	/ˌpriːdɪˈlekʃən/	A preference for something	Preference, inclination	Aversion, dislike	She had a predilection for clean, modular code.
130	Proclivity	Noun	/prəˈklɪvəti/	A natural inclination	Tendency, propensity	Disinclination, aversion	His proclivity for automation saved hours of manual work.
131	Quiescent	Adjective	/ˈkwaiˈesənt/	In a state of inactivity	Inactive, dormant	Active, lively	The server stayed quiescent during off-peak hours.
132	Recalcitrant	Adjective, Noun	/rɪˈkælsɪtrənt/	Stubbornly resistant	Uncooperative, defiant	Compliant, obedient	A recalcitrant process refused to terminate normally.
133	Recondite	Adjective	/ˈrekəndaɪt/	Little known	Abstruse, obscure	Simple, known	The paper delved into recondite memory management techniques.
134	Redolent	Adjective	/ˈredələnt/	Reminiscent	Evocative, suggestive	Unrelated, distinct	The solution was redolent of earlier prototypes.
135	Refulgent	Adjective	/rɪˈfʌldʒənt/	Shining brightly	Brilliant, radiant	Dim, dull	The refulgent display confirmed system readiness.
136	Sagacious	Adjective	/səˈgeɪʃəs/	Wise, discerning	Wise, shrewd	Foolish, naive	Her sagacious advice shaped the design strategy.
137	Salubrious	Adjective	/səˈluːbrɪəs/	Health-giving	Healthful, beneficial	Harmful, unhealthy	A salubrious work environment boosts productivity.
138	Sanguine	Adjective, Noun	/ˈsæŋgwɪn/	Optimistic in adversity	Hopeful, confident	Pessimistic, doubtful	They remained sanguine about meeting the release date.
139	Scintilla	Noun	/ˈsɪnˈtɪlə/	A tiny trace	Trace, speck	Abundance, lot	Not a scintilla of evidence supported the claim.
140	Sobriquet	Noun	/ˈsəʊbrɪket/	A nickname	Moniker, alias	Given name	The prototype was known by the sobering sobriquet "Project X."

141	Soporific	Adjective, Noun	/ˌsɒpəˈrɪfɪk/	Tending to cause sleep	Sleep-inducing, dull	Stimulating, energizing	The meeting became soporific and lost engagement.
142	Sporadic	Adjective	/spəˈrædɪk/	Occurring irregularly	Intermittent, occasional	Frequent, steady	Fans reported sporadic connection drops.
143	Stentorian	Adjective	/stenˈtɔːriən/	Very loud	Loud, powerful	Soft, quiet	Stentorian alarms warned of the power anomaly.
144	Superfluous	Adjective	/suːˈpɜːfluəs/	Unnecessary	Excessive, redundant	Necessary, essential	Superfluous comments were removed from the code.
145	Surreptitious	Adjective	/ˌsʌrəpˈtɪʃəs/	Secretive	Covert, stealthy	Open, public	The surreptitious backup process saved critical data.
146	Sycophant	Noun	/ˈsɪkəfənt/	Self-serving flatterer	Toady, flatterer	Critic, independent	He was tired of the sycophant praise in meetings.
147	Tantamount	Adjective	/ˈtæntəmaʊnt/	Equivalent in seriousness	Equivalent, equal	Different, unequal	Failing tests was tantamount to losing stakeholder confidence.
148	Temerity	Noun	/təˈmerəti/	Excessive boldness	Audacity, recklessness	Caution, prudence	He had the temerity to challenge the senior architect.
149	Tenebrous	Adjective	/ˈtenəbrəs/	Dark and gloomy	Murky, obscure	Bright, clear	The tenebrous report section needed clarification.
150	Terse	Adjective	/tɜːs/	Brief and to the point	Concise, blunt	Verbose, wordy	The email was terse but conveyed all vital info.
151	Tortuous	Adjective	/ˈtɔːtʃuəs/	Full of twists and turns	Winding, complex	Straightforward, direct	The dependency graph was tortuous and hard to trace.
152	Trenchant	Adjective	/ˈtrentʃənt/	Vigorous or incisive	Sharp, penetrating	Weak, dull	She delivered a trenchant critique of the design flaws.
153	Truculent	Adjective	/ˈtrʌkjuələnt/	Aggressively defiant	Defiant, belligerent	Cooperative, friendly	His truculent response derailed the discussion.
154	Ubiquitous	Adjective	/juːˈbɪkwɪtəs/	Found everywhere	Omnipresent, pervasive	Rare, uncommon	Sensors are becoming ubiquitous in modern devices.
155	Umbrage	Noun	/ˈʌmbrɪdʒ/	Offense or annoyance	Offense, resentment	Pleasure, delight	She took umbrage at the abrupt dismissal of her concerns.
156	Umbral	Adjective	/ˈʌmbrəl/	Relating to a shadow	Shadowy, dark	Illuminated, bright	The data fell into the umbral region of indeterminate values.
157	Vacillate	Verb	/ˈvæsɪleɪt/	To waver in mind or opinion	Hesitate, fluctuate	Decide, settle	Don't vacillate too long on the deployment date.
158	Vapid	Adjective	/ˈvæpɪd/	Lacking interest or flavor	Bland, insipid	Lively, engaging	The documentation was vapid and needed richer detail.
159	Venal	Adjective	/ˈviːnəl/	Corrupt or bribable	Corrupt, dishonest	Honest, incorruptible	Venal practices compromised data integrity.
160	Veracity	Noun	/vəˈræsəti/	Truthfulness	Honesty, accuracy	Falsehood, deceit	We must verify the veracity of all simulation results.
161	Vicissitude	Noun	/vɪˈsɪsɪtjuːd/	A change of circumstances	Fluctuation, variation	Stability, consistency	They adapted to every vicissitude during the project.
162	Vitiate	Verb	/ˈvɪʃieɪt/	To spoil or impair	Impair, degrade	Strengthen, enhance	Uncontrolled error logging can vitiate performance.
163	Vituperate	Verb	/vaɪˈtjuːpəreɪt/	To criticize harshly	Abur, berate	Praising, commend	He would often vituperate novices for simple mistakes.
164	Vociferous	Adjective	/vəˈsɪfərəs/	Loud and impassioned	Clamorous, outspoken	Quiet, muted	The vociferous objections delayed final approval.
165	Winsome	Adjective	/ˈwɪnsəm/	Attractive or appealing	Charming, engaging	Unattractive, repellent	His winsome presentation won over the clients.
166	Zeitgeist	Noun	/ˈzaɪtɡaɪst/	Spirit of the time	Spirit, trend	—	The platform captured the zeitgeist of decentralization.
